CARRYING MONEY NEWS.

How New York's Financiers Keep in Touch With the Market. Here is an illustration of how the slips or circulars which are in reality little newspapers are produced: It is the day of the panie, May 9. There is a "squeeze in Northern Pacific and shares are selling for $1,000. In the midst of the finincial melce, when a great many of the operators in Wall Street, according to the market, are insolvent, the manager of J. P. Morgan & Co. sends for a representative of the news bureau. "Announce," says Morgan's man, "that deliveries of Northern Pacific will not be enforced today." Same time same one representing the associated banks also sends for a news bureau reporter: "Announce that we will loan money at the legal rate to the extent of $25,000,000. Announce, too." confinues the mouthpiece of the banks, "that we will not call loans made this day -that such loans can stand for a while, at

haif a minute later those messages are being printed on the very tiniest cylinder press in New York.

As they gush forth in cold type in the form of circulars boys seize a handful and rush out. There are forty of the Mercuries of the street, and woe be to the man who is merely "rubbering" around the money quarter—he finds himself considerably jarred by boys who are rushing on without stopping to apologize. The espoil de corns among these boys would esprit de corps among these boys would shame the staff of an ordinary newspa-
